• • PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE • •

2009 marked the 15 year anniversary of the Canadian Wheelchair Basketball Association, an independent National Sport Organization committed to developing the game of wheelchair basketball throughout Canada. The year also marked the renewal of that past commitment in the launch of our new "Wheelchair Basketball Canada" brand, and our new tag line, "Real Life. Real Sport.". The new branding signifies an updated and important shift in attitude and priorities that align with our vision of becoming the world leader in wheelchair basketball, an endeavor that ultimately underlies everything we do.

Wheelchair Basketball Canada has raised the bar in its commitment to ensuring we are building the capacity to effect the sustained development of the game in all our local communities. We look forward, in the early part of 2010, to the long awaited implementation of our sport's Long Term Athlete Development Model (LTAD), a national plan promoting common and collaborative pathways to sporting excellence and healthy well-being for Canadians. 2009 initiatives in support of the LTAD included an increase in national office staff, expanded funding to our project and hosting grant initiatives, enhanced program offerings for technical officials, and new cost sharing arrangements with our provincial counterparts to assist in promoting the vertical integration of our national plan.

Wheelchair Basketball Canada has rededicated itself to ensuring its best athletes are the best equipped and best prepared athletes come time for competition on the international stage. Most noticeable in our rededication is our recent staffing of a fulltime High Performance Director and a fulltime National Junior Team Head Coach with additional responsibilities for the management and delivery of our national development curriculum through Wheelchair Basketball Canada's Centre for Performance program. We were honored this past August to host the 2009 Americas Cup, and we are ecstatic in our selection to host the inaugural Women's Under 25 World Championships in the summer of 2011. We welcome these strategic opportunities to contribute to the growth and promotion of our international game, and we are thrilled at any chance to capture and inspire our next generation of wheelchair basketball enthusiasts here in Canada.

We are proud of our new Wheelchair Basketball Canada brand and the renewed responsibility we associate with that brand. And we are ever excited at the prospect of a shared and coordinated national approach to the future growth of our game in Canada. Congratulations and many thanks to all our partners, past and present, for the individual and collective contributions you've made towards making 2009 an anniversary to remember.

Steve Bach - President, Wheelchair Basketball Canada

Nik Goncin - Team Canada at 2009 Jr World Championships in Paris, France

Chantal Benoit - Team Canada at 2009 Ottawa Inviational

Wheelchair Basketball Canada enjoyed a memorable 2009 season. It was the organization's 15th anniversary and one that was earmarked by numerous individual and collective successes, as well as significant growth and continued maturation. Backed by the ongoing accomplishments of our two Senior National Teams, and under the guidance of a new 2009-2013 Strategic Plan, the organization reaffirmed its commitment to excellence and renewed efforts to be a world leader.

In 2009, Canadian athletes, coaches, administrators, and volunteers from coast-to-coast benefited from an increased investment of resources (both human and monetary). The implementation of strategic policies targeted at the grassroots level through to the elite high performance athlete help ensure Canadians are provided the very best opportunities to play, train, and compete. Coupled with an ever-growing wealth of knowledge and expertise, and united by a common passion for the game, Canada's wheelchair basketball community remained as committed as ever in the continued development of the sport.

The past year, was indeed a historical one for the organization as Wheelchair Basketball Canada endeavoured to redefine its own corporate identity and forge ahead with plans to pioneer the growth and expansion of the game. The commencement of a new era in the history of the organization and the sport promises to benefit Canadians for years to come. Overall, 2009 was a year brimming with rewarding moments and one that rivals any in the rich history of the organization.
